

Swift Challenger

SE 530

Great performance and excellent features have made our journeys around Scotland even more enjoyable

At Findhorn Bay Holiday Park.

At Granttown-on-Spey Caravan Park.

At Pine Trees Leisure Park.

OUR test 'van has facilitated some excellent journeys north over the last two months, taking in trips to Granttown-on-Spey, Findhorn Bay, Foresterseat at Forfar and Pine Trees at Tyndrum.

The SE was well looked at on all these parks, and created interest from fellow caravanners who were full of questions as to the 'van's performance.

In my opinion, this caravan has many attributes that are only found on more expensive alternatives, and overall it represents excellent value for money.

Features include excellent upholstery, a 40-watt solar panel, and Alde radiator central heating with touch-screen control panel. The washroom has a separate shower cubicle with its powerful Ecomamel shower head, and there's also a handy hanging rail, a back-lit mirror, and the luxury of an Alde heated towel rail.

The lighting in the 'van is first class, with low energy lighting throughout, including low level night lights. It lets you set your lighting to suit every situation.

Our test 'van, with a weight level of just under 1,500 kg, is ideal for towing with any two-litre family saloon. When hitched to our Citroën C5 diesel I found it performed very well indeed, and with ATC fitted it can make quite a difference.

For instance, on my journey south from the Moray Firth, I had to drive through the Glens of Foudland, south of Keith, where the crosswinds can be really troublesome. I found the ATC cutting in and out quite readily to combat what were quite strong crosswinds.

In fact, I have to admit the Challenger SE530 acted very well in all departments on all my travels during the late summer.

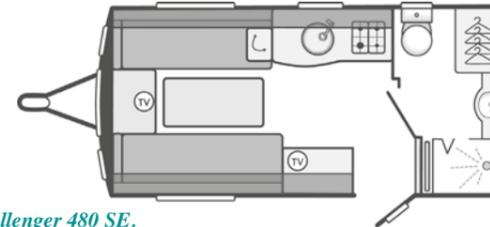

With 10 models on offer in this range, I am sure there is a model to satisfy 99% of caravanners' needs.
